

Noted Doctor Bases Theory Of Heredity On Action Of Genes

Somerville Lecturer, Dr. Goldschmidt, Outlines Physiological Hypotheses

TWO MAIN PROBLEMS

Reason For Control Of Egg Development Remains Unsolved

Basing his whole Physiological Theory of Heredity on the action of minute genes present within the chromosomes in a cell, Dr. Goldschmidt, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of Berlin, delivered the annual Somerville lecture on Friday evening in Moyle Hall before a capacity audience. The topic of his lecture was "The Physiological Theory of Heredity." A number of lantern slides and diagrams were also shown during the course of the evening in further explanation of a number of the theories advanced.

Taking as his opening example the case of a fertilized egg in an incubator, the speaker stated that external conditions being constant the same hatching process goes on. The question arises, how is it possible for these things to take place in a definite way and within a definite time? The answer is that heredity is so laid down that nothing but this can happen.

Study of Heredity

The whole study of heredity then has two major problems which must be solved before the phenomenon can be understood. The first of these evolves from what it is that enables the fertilized egg to develop into an organism with traits which classify it as belonging to the same type as its parents. The second problem is, granting the presence of this something in a cell, how it can produce the typical effects in controlling orderly development.

In explanation of the first of these problems, the speaker briefly outlined the Mendelian theory of inheritance. Hereditary traits are produced in the offspring due to the existence in the parents of minute active units, known as genes. Each organism has a definite number of these genes present in the chromosomes of every cell. Whatever the chromosomes are doing, the genes are doing. Yet how do these latter act? They are assumed to be made up of some unknown chemically active substance and to be arranged in a very orderly way with—

Medical Officer To Address Undergrads

Talk By General Birkett On Army Medical Service

The Medical Undergraduate Society will be addressed tonight at 8 p.m. by General H. S. Birkett, Emeritus Professor of Oto-Laryngology, on the subject of "Army Medical Service, Past and Present."

Dr. Birkett is peculiarly qualified to speak on the subject, because he has devoted most of his medical life to the interests of the Army Medical Service. It was with his help and advice that the stretcher bearer companies and medical units were formed in this city many years ago, and the Doctor undertook a special course at military schools in England to fit himself for this duty. It is well known that Dr. Birkett organized No. 3 McGill General Hospital, which went overseas in 1915, and which made for itself an enviable record among the other medical units of the Service.

In recognition of his services, he was promoted to Brigadier General and awarded the O. B. (Military). The lecture should be of interest to all students and most of all to those members who are interested in the C.O.T.C.

Radioactivity Forms Subject Of Lecture

"Chemistry and Physics of Radioactivity at McGill" will be the subject of a lecture at tomorrow's meeting of the Chemical Industries Club, which will take place at five o'clock in the main lecture theatre of the Chemical Building. Dr. A. S. Eve, Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research, will be the speaker. The lecture is open to all who are interested.

Members are asked to meet in Room 2 of the Chemistry Building before the lecture.

Political Stage Fixed For Coming Session

Operatic Society's Dress Rehearsal Elicits Admiration

Premiere Performance Of "Yeomen Of The Guard" Tuesday Night

"If this rehearsal can be accepted as the basis of the performance which you are giving in Moyle Hall beginning Tuesday, let me be the first to congratulate you on the production of the 'Yeomen of the Guard.' That was the statement of a local music critic who attended Saturday's dress rehearsal of the show. He was not alone in his opinion, and those others who had been invited to see this rehearsal were equally optimistic of the future accomplishments of the Operatic and Choral Society.

"This will probably be the best amateur musical theatrical to be seen in Montreal this year," said another man, and so on to the third and the fourth. The costumes especially were lauded.

The whole show was produced on scheduled time on Saturday, and everybody in the cast was arrayed in full costume regalia. This was the first time that the entire cast had put on the costumes which were executed by Mallabar, of Toronto.

Only one thing was missing at the time to make the rehearsal fall short of a perfect performance. The scenery was not in place; this through no fault of the committee in charge, since every bit of scenery has already been constructed and painted, and now stands ready for use in Moyle Hall. It will be put in place tonight at the final dress rehearsal.

"Perfection is the aim of the production manager. The show has been in rehearsal for nearly a full year now, and money ($1,500.00 of it) along with unstinted effort has been poured into the show. Everything is in perfect readiness for the opening curtain in Moyle Hall tomorrow night."

Tickets for this show are going at a quicker pace now with the imminent opening. Reports from the box-office show a tremendous student support for the production, coupled with a large demand from outside sources for tickets. These non-university people pay $1.25 for the same tickets which students may purchase for 85 cents.

Scholarship Offered To Canadian Women

Award Is Limited To Graduate Students

Applications for the Travelling Scholarship, offered by the Canadian Federation of University Women and open to any woman holding a degree from a Canadian University should be made by letter to Dr. A. V. Douglas, McGill University, not later than February 1st.

The award is based on evidence of character and ability of the candidate and promise of success in the subject to which she is devoting herself. The letter of application should contain an account of the applicant's educational training and a statement in full of the plan to study or research she intends to pursue. The committee of Selection in consultation with the candidate will choose the University at which the successful candidate shall pursue her study of research work.

The scholarship which is valued at $1200 will be paid in two installments and is held for one year.

R.V.C. '36 Hygiene Lecture

The hygiene lecture which was scheduled for today has been cancelled, so that all may be free to attend the meeting of the Students' Society in the Union Ballroom. The lecture will be given on Monday, December 19.

Associate Board

There will be a meeting of the Daily Associate Board this morning between one and two o'clock in the Daily office. All Associates are urged to be present for important matters pertaining to all concerned will be discussed.

Prime Minister Rushes Back To Defend Government

Gigantic Hustings To Take Place On Arts Steps Tomorrow

(S. S. Eugenie At Sea—Special Cable)—Plowing through storm-tossed waters at full speed, the S.S. Empress Eugenie is rushing Prime Minister R. W. Becket back to his native land, where he must face the most severe crisis in the history of his government, when the Rt. Hon. Max Ford, Leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition will introduce a vote of non-confidence on Tuesday night. Interviewed this morning at the rail, the Premier seemed to have his mind on matters more practical than political. Political excitement is at a high pitch in local circles as the Prime Minister nears Montreal, where he and his co-freers, as well as the Opposition members, will address a huge mass gathering in front of the Arts steps tomorrow at one o'clock. This gigantic hustings precedes the scheduled session of the House tomorrow evening in the Ballroom of the Union.

Denials Emphatic
Emphatic denial from the Conservative headquarters in Montreal scouted all rumor that the reason the House is being convened on Tuesday evening instead of Thursday as previously scheduled was because the Government wished to call upon the Yeomen of the Guard to evict those who are prepared to vote against the Government. "Bully, puerile, childish," and like epithets were used in this emphatic statement to describe the rumor.

(Bale Rummage, Que.—Special To The McGill Daily)

Barely able to escape with his life, the Hon. Henri Becket, Liberal member, is resting very quietly in the morgue following an attack by Conservative partisans. When interviewed last night he spoke weakly through the corner of his mouth "I had a swell time while it lasted but as they were armed with pick-axe heads they were more than I could handle. I guess my opponents found I was a hard man to beat."

One Big Hole, P.Q., Dec. 12

"We never had the intention of calling upon the Yeomen of the Guard to clear the House as was stated in the rumor maliciously spread by the Opposition," stated Hon. A. Zaitlin in his address to a throng of enthusiastic people who came down to the station to be sure that he left. Enveloped in the fumes of a 5-cent cigar he continued that the Opposition must have mistaken the word "Yeomen" for "Yeaman" which was used by Government officials in discussing that all their "Yeamen" should be present at the coming session. This, of course was said in a very confidential manner.

Bishop Of Montreal Conducted Services

Sir Robert Falconer Delivered Sermon At Special Ceremony

An Impressive University Service was conducted yesterday morning in Moyle Hall by the Right Rev. Lord Bishop of Montreal. This service commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Young Men's Christian Association of McGill, which was established in 1882. The association later severed its connection and became a branch of the Students' Christian Movement of America.

The lesson was delivered by Sir Robert Falconer in the absence of Sir Arthur Currie. Sir Robert, former President of the University of Toronto and one of the leading educationalists in Canada, likewise delivered the sermon.

Among those present were Dean Adams, emeritus vice-president of McGill, and several members of the Board of Governors. The choir was composed almost entirely of McGill students.

Invite Contributions For Xmas Number

THE Christmas issue of the McGill Daily will appear on December 21. The Managing Board invites contributions of articles, essays, and short stories for publication in this issue. Manuscripts should be addressed to the Editor and should be in his hands before December 15.

Economic Recovery By New Educational Methods Advocated

Sir Norman Angell Speaks On "Educational And Social Chaos"

AT PEOPLES FORUM

Clear Insight Of World Problems Needed Among Masses

Stating that the schools do not equip the masses properly to meet the many crises that arise in life today, Sir Norman Angell, noted economist, writer and lecturer delivered an address before the Peoples' Forum yesterday afternoon on "Education and Social Chaos." If the ordinary person is to be able to make decisions about great issues, the present educational system must be radically altered.

Sir Norman went on to discuss the downfall of the present economic system, and added, "I don't believe it is beyond the capacity of men to avoid the economic disease." To illustrate his point, he showed how many diseases, such as leprosy and the bubonic plague had been eliminated from the Western world simply because the causes had been studied, and precautionary methods taken to avoid them. In China and India, the illiteracy and fatalism of the masses has made it impossible for them to grasp the ideas of the necessity for prevention, and thus these deadly scourges are prevalent among them.

Economic Fatalism
In a like manner, the Western world is suffering from economic fatalism. "When we deal with physical phenomena we approach them carefully and coldly," in an entirely scientific manner. But, "when we come to economic phenomena, to politics, sociology, we drop that attitude. We become fatalistic." We say that war is inevitable.

Two Hundred And Fifty Merry-makers Frolic At Annual Dance

SANBORN PLAYS

Babe Gordon Officiates As Master Of Ceremonies — Representatives Present

Stepping to the strains of Eddie Sanborn's orchestra, two hundred and fifty merry-makers filled the Plaza of the Mount Royal Hotel Saturday night at the annual Medical Ball.

The music began at ten o'clock, and by ten thirty the festivities were well under way. After six dances, supper was served at midnight. The menu was received with great gusto by the hungry saw-bones and their partners, and sounds of gusto echoed from every corner of the room. During the meal the meal there was an extra supper dance, and the floor was well-filled between the chicken a la king and the buche glaze.

After supper Babe Gordon, prominent New York master of ceremonies, Cab Calloway's understudy rendered several numbers with great insouciance. The crowd responded with great gusto to Minnie the Moocher, and the floor rocked in time to the music as the chorus came to the final crescendo. Six more dances and some extras followed the supper, and at four o'clock the crowd stood to God Save the King and the happy party broke up.

The souvenir programs bound in

Somerville Lectures Established In 1837

The Somerville lecture at McGill, was instituted about 90 years ago by the Reverend James Somerville M.A., of Glasgow University; it was placed under the auspices of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research with the Dean and the Heads of the Biological Departments as committee, several years ago.

The founder, a well-known Protestant minister of Montreal, was interested in civic affairs and was active in the formation of the Natural History Society. On his death in 1837 he bequeathed £1,000 sterling for the benefit of the Natural History Society of Montreal to provide for lectures by noted authorities on scientific subjects. On the liquidation of the Natural History Society several years ago, its liabilities and assets including the museum, passed to McGill University.

Mock Reichstag To Discuss Plans For Future Gatherings

"BIERABENDS in the future. Yes or No?" will be the subject of discussion before the Mock Reichstag of the German Club this afternoon at the German Club meeting in Strathcona Hall.

The Government will be upheld by Chancellor Herr Karter, while the Opposition ranks will be headed by Herr von Kaplan. It should be a heated discussion in which many of the members are expected to join in view of the popularity which has attended the Bierabends of the past.

The hour has been fixed for 4 o'clock, so that the club will have time to debate, sing a few songs, of which there are some new ones on hand, and then adjourn on time to attend the Students Society meeting.

Students' Society Convened To Discuss Vital Issue Today

Endeavour To Clear Up Problem Between Daily And Council

WITH a meeting of the Students' Society called for 5:15 this afternoon some settlement may be reached in the existing deadlock between the Students' Executive Council and the Managing Board of the Daily who are at present indefinitely suspended by the former body. It is hoped that the meeting will see a large turn-out of students so that a fair decision may be reached.

To the Students' Society:
Owing to the vitally important issues at stake I wish to make an appeal to the Students' Society of McGill University to attend the Meeting in the Ball Room of the Union at 5:15 this afternoon. (Signed) A. DEANE NESBITT, President.

A summary of the struggle so far reveals the fact that the Council, acting under a misapprehension, asked for the suspension of the student responsible for a certain article which appeared in the Daily. The student in question turned out to be Ernest Crown, News Editor, and in protest of Crown's suspension, the Managing Board and Associate Board of Editors resigned "en masse" after sending last Tuesday night's issue to press. At a meeting of the Council on Wednesday night the Executive became aware of the misunderstanding and rescinded their motion suspending Crown, but feeling that the Students' Society had been let down by the Managing Board in their general walkout, they therefore suspended this Board indefinitely.

The Associate Board, then feeling their duty to the Students' Society, agreed to publish the Daily in conjunction with the Council up to and including Monday night's issue and, a petition with twenty-five signatures was submitted to the President of the Society, asking him to call a meeting of the Students' Society for 5:15 this afternoon where the whole question will be put before the student body.

The general business of the meeting this afternoon will be to either justify the action of the Executive Council or to vindicate the steps taken by the Daily Board to protest the action of the former body. It is hard to foresee the outcome and only a fair and impartial decision will be reached by having a large number of students on hand so that the feeling prevalent there will represent the opinion of the majority of the student body.

REPORTERS

Reporters are requested to be on hand as usual tonight and to check off their assignments at 1:00 p.m. today.

Freshmen In Arts Gathered In Union At First Informal

Seventy-Five Couples Attended Dance Last Friday Evening

THE Union Ball Room was the scene of the first Freshman Informal of the year, last Friday night, when over 75 couples danced to the orchestral strains of Howard Simpson's Privateers. Tables and chairs on both sides of the dance floor, allowing for sitting out as well as the serving of refreshments, helped to lend an air of informality.

Red and white colors were prominently displayed by all in attendance, and served as the badge of admittance, along with the necessary pasteborders. Supper was served at about midnight and the evening did not break up until well after one o'clock. Dr. and Mrs. Cyrus MacMillan, along with Prof. D'Hauterive were the patrons for the affair. The committee in charge was composed of the following: Messrs. McDonald, Brown, MacKenzie, Macfarlane, Westman and Howard.

Present Hamlet

On the evenings of December 29, 30, 31, after two performances in Ottawa, the Montreal Repertory Theatre will bring Shakespeare's Hamlet to Moyle Hall. This is more than a seasonal theatrical event for it marks the first practical effort this organization hopes, towards the inauguration of a Canadian Theatre Group movement.

Fiftieth Anniversary Of S.C.M. Observed On Saturday Evening

Sir Robert Falconer Addressed Gathering At Special Dinner

RECALLS OLD TIMES

Generosity Of Wealthy Merchants Commended By Mr. W. Birks

"A true religion of intellect that appeals to the whole man is the religion which is going to be of value in a University," stated Sir Robert Falconer, past president of the University of Toronto and guest speaker at the Fiftieth Anniversary Dinner of the S.C.M. of McGill University, held in the Ritz Carlton Hotel last Saturday night. In his address on "The place of religion in the university," Sir Robert Falconer pointed out that as true religion takes possession of the whole man it must thrive in the University if it is to thrive at all. The belief that as the outer man wears away the inner man is renewed is the spirit true religion gives and thus it is that our religion has a golden age in the future the speaker claimed.

Merchants Commended

The wealthy merchants of Montreal were commended by Mr. W. Birks for their generous contributions to the building of Strathcona Hall. These men Mr. Birks went on to say considered the youth at McGill, their responsibility and were extremely generous in donating money to build a spiritual city in the lives of the students. Thus, he continued, the Y. M. C. A. of McGill founded by Sir William Dawson was given an excellent start. The foundations were so excellent, in fact, that the work of the old Y. M. C. A. of McGill is still being carried on by its successor, the Students Christian Movement.

Conditions In 1882 Described
Dr. P. D. Adams, the chairman, described conditions around McGill in 1882 when he himself was a student and at the time when the Y. M. C. A. of McGill was founded. He went on to relate in humorous vein how at that time cows were wont to prowl around the lower campus and how this and the unevenness of the football field roused the wrath of the student body. McGill College avenue was then a

Three Speakers At Labor Club Meeting

Will Discuss Varied Topics At Strathcona Hall Tomorrow Evening

At the meeting of the Labor Club tomorrow, to be held at Strathcona Hall, at 8:00 p.m., addresses will be given by three speakers, each of whom has made a thorough and concentrated study of the subjects to be presented.

Miss Ragnhild Tait will deal with her experiences among the coal miners of Cape Breton, and will include in her talk some remarks on the education of the miner's children, and the functioning of the co-operatives among the miners. She went through the mines, and has many interesting impressions to relate.

The second speaker of the evening will be Mr. Harold Gibbard, who gave his M.A. thesis at the U. of T. on the "Unemployed Man In The Street." He will talk on the psychological reactions of the unemployed, as well as the effects on their morale. Mr. Lloyd Reynolds, president of the club will then discuss the economic conditions of the farmer in the West, and his consequent political attitudes. Mr. Reynolds made a very detailed study of this subject during the past summer. All students are cordially invited to attend.

Teaching Staff Here Has 573 Members

The number of officers of instruction required to teach all the subjects on the McGill University curriculum has grown with the ever-increasing student body. This year there are nine deans and 57 full professors at McGill, these being assisted by 16 clinical professors, 57 assistant professors and two special research professors. Then there are 129 lecturers, 102 demonstrators, 44 instructors, 30 assistant demonstrators, 21 assistants, six graduate assistants, 12 clinical demonstrators, 17 fellows, and one assistant instructor. The teaching staff is completed by a group of miscellaneous officers. This year there are no less than 573 from the deans of faculties right down the scale.

Thought

THE problems and controversies of the day must inevitably result in some thought being given to them, and the attitudes derived are, to the individual, firm and sincere, since they are his deductions from the truths available. Thus the aborigines were right in slaughtering their neighbors in order to acquire flocks and harvests because they knew of no other means of distribution, and were ready to justify with their lives their idea of a social conduct that upheld self above everything else. Civilization has been merely the growth of the recognition of other people's attitudes towards truth, and the submission to the necessity of specialization.

Copernicus, for example, was one of these specialists, with a knowledge of truths that his own localized thought enabled him to discover. The inability of his contemporaries to understand his ideas, and their refusal to permit their propagation or even their existence has become history, and a matter for derisive laughter by any of the "moderns" with two ounces of intelligence. "If they only knew what we think of them now!" we say of these overbearing councillors who forced their ignorant opinions upon the trail-blazers of science and art, and who, by reason of their official position influenced the minds of the common throng to grant these pioneers no hospitality.

Today, we have overcome the prejudicial influence of the ignorant powerful. Individual thought, and action upon its deductions are the inherent rights of every individual in democracy, but our civilization has advanced to that point where we refuse to give evidence of definite intention until we have consulted our specialists and discovered the basic principles concerned. Ritual and constitutionality are negligible when contrasted with truthful action, and authority affects our risibility when it attempts to impose its ideas. It is here that thought is paramount; authority even now can force alienists to conform to its rulings when it is supported by democratic majority, but nothing can prevent the thoughts on the part of the subdued who know themselves to be correct, from having the last laugh as they say dramatically, "Your puerility, and our devotion to right have placed us on a Copernician pedestal."

Thought on this campus has ever been encouraged, and specialized thought has been reason for the founding of almost every student club. These very groups are indicative of the most civilized manner of seeking after the truth, perhaps even more so than the academic lecture room. They are the admission on the part of the individuals that ideas of one person on a particular subject are worth study and discussion by others of similar inclination, and that the continual amalgamation of thoughts alone will spell advance and surer knowledge. Should these clubs be interfered with, say by the police or by a body of censors of one sort or another, they may be forced to change their external conduct, but their inner feelings will remain the same.

Thus, if the Economics Club is forbidden to discuss the debt situation, it will think more deeply on the matter; if the Players' Club is prevented from presenting some particular play which they have in mind, its members will produce it in their own thoughts, and far more lavishly; if the Labor Club is warned not to discuss unemployment, it will snicker and speak about Dutch dates; if the Choral Society is forced to sing before the Boiler-pipe-menders Union as obvious program filler, it will do so, but in nine flats, and 99 parts. But, of course, this is not so. The clubs are given free reign, and are expected to govern their action by their own civilization. And because the student body believes in the necessity of their existence, it gives them both personal and financial support. Thus has thought created its own importance.

Made In U. S. A.

CAN be it from us to blow our police-whistles at those who have the more or less thankless job of arranging for dances at our fair university. The amount of work involved in such an undertaking usually makes generous demands on the time of the members of dance committees.

Nevertheless, it is with chastened mien that we gaze at the artistic and admirably thought up souvenir program of the Annual Medical Ball. Bound in white kid, stamped in gold, and trimmed with ribbons, it is indeed an object of wonder and delight to the jaded palate of the sophisticated dancegoer. Glancing idly through it, our eye falls on "Patronesses," "Dances," "Menu," "Committee," and finally in very small type on the last page comes disillusion with the words "Printed in U. S. A." The reader can draw the moral of the tale for himself.

Perhaps the object of the medical committee was to help relieve the depression in the United States. Perhaps it was an attempt to foster amicable international relations. It is easy to wax indignant and sarcastic over such a situation; a Cana-

THE THEATRE

The Children's Play

Once again, the English Department has shown that it excels in those branches of the drama, which can be allied with the Workshop department. Its fields of experiment have varied, but all the work has received good study, ample preparation, and tasteful settings, and when finally ready, has merited standards akin to those reserved for the professional, by achieving results that have none of the experimenter's rough edges, and yet all the freshness of the new. There is no better example than their latest production, "Treasure Island."

Presented Saturday for the second time, to a rather smaller audience than might have been expected, the play ran through with surprising smoothness, and kept the children—an audience usually apt to make very audible remarks—interested throughout. The settings were not lavish but to the point, with a sort of suggestive realism that made the most with the least amount of property. The costumes were likewise ideal, and in harmony with the setting, made a very color-picture.

The dramatization of the play is perhaps just slightly too advanced for the children who attend, but is certainly an advance over previous "Children's Plays" by the department, both for language and for its close following of the script. The dialogue is well apportioned, and rarely superfluous, and the situations are clearly defined. In fact, the play could do for a much older audience.

The cast, was fully adequate. They are too numerous to mention individually, but very few outstanding faults were to be noted among any of the actors. It might be wise, however, to point out some of the characters, Billy Bones, who did excellent work during the first act, Jim Hawkins, rather plump for a boy, but effective nevertheless, and a winning card with the children, Dr. Livesey and Squire Trelawney, the stiff villagers, Long John Silver, a very fine rogue, and Ben Gunn, the little Robinson Crusoe of the play.

The improvements that have been noticed in these Children's plays have been steady. Those presented by Miss Marguerite Strathby three years ago, were by comparison inferior to those of last year, and in turn, the present offering excels over its predecessor. A rosy future is in view.

Movie Reviews

Palace Theatre

In their usual lavish fashion, the movie moguls assembled ten directors, some twenty scenarios writers, and dozens of well known actors and actresses, including Gary Cooper, Frances Dee, Jack Oakie, Charlie Ruggles, and Mary Boland, set them all to work and the result of their combined efforts was "If I Had a Million." Originally, rather a good play, dealing, as you should have guessed by now, with the reactions of several people, who quite unexpectedly receive a million dollars each, the movie version somehow manages to squeeze the ultimate drop of sentiment and slapstick out of a sadly mutilated script. There is enough humour there and more than enough smashing of cars and china by high salaried stars, but somehow, with that imposing array of talent, unfortunately for the anti-news-reelists, there is a Mickey Mouse cartoon and an entertaining short subject all about outboard motorboat racing, but why the management should have included a pathetic plea for the poor postman is quite beyond us.

C. H. A.

Loew's Theatre

The censors had a field day with Kongo, the film which opened Saturday at Loew's Theatre, and by their indiscriminate cutting spoiled much of the sequence and atmosphere of the picture. The locale is set in the African jungle with all its accompanying adjuncts; wild, ju-ju, glistening black, oily natives, burning heat, and miasmatic swamps.

Walter Huston, who played the leading part in the stage production of Kongo, has the same part in the motion picture. As "Deadlegs" Flint, consumed with an overwhelming rage against the man who stole his wife, and left him crippled to die in the jungle, his performance is compelling. Lupe Velez is glamorous and exciting as the forest alien, but her scenes have been ruthlessly cut, leaving a mere frame work of the original. Virginia Bruce seems miscast for the part of Flint's daughter.

The highly melodramatic flavor of the Stage version has lost nothing in the transfer, but those who are sceptically inclined are advised not to inquire too deeply into the plot.

The vaudeville is mediocre, not that any one of the acts is very poor, but rather that none of them is really outstanding. "Quiet Palace," by William and Joe Mandel, is very close to being good.

Princess Theatre

A murder story that is really unique is the feature picture at the Princess this week. Adolphe Menjou is the suave Police Commissioner who gives a polished performance in this Night Club Lady. Although the murder was committed before the very eyes of the audience and a circle of police guards the procedure was wholly unknown. The manner in which a score of complicated and dian University sending its programs to the United States to be printed, in times of depression. But it must always be remembered that there are two sides to such a question. Could any Canadian firm have done as good a piece of work, and could it have met the American prices? If this query can be answered in the affirmative, censure must fall on the medical dance committee. If the answer is in the negative, the committee is absolutely justified and another straw must be added to the camel's back of Canadian inability to meet foreign competition.

diverse facts were finally clarified proves to be extremely engrossing.

The other feature, "Wild Girl, with Charles Farrell, Joan Bennett and Ralph Bellamy was a story of life and love in the hill country of the south. The romance though commonplace, was entertaining, a animated cartoon and news-reel completed the bill.

Capitol Theatre

Variety forms the theme for the Capitol's current productions of this week. Crime, football, hockey and similar topics are included in the two feature pictures "Payment Deferred" and "The Sport Parade."

Charles Laughton in "Payment Deferred" gives as good an interpretation as has ever been seen here of a murderer with good intentions who is fighting a battle within himself between conscience and duty. He is a new-comer with a characteristic English accent and he displays his wares in an admirable manner. The directors have shown good sense in selecting him for the part and at no time does he let them down. Supporting him ably are Veree Teasdale and Maureen O'Sullivan.

The second feature "The Sport Parade" starring Joel McCrae as an all-round athlete who after graduating from college with a brilliant sport record is forced by circumstances to become a professional wrestler. The eternal triangle of two men and a maid, the latter played by Marian Marsh, is worked here to the extreme. But the fans are happy for the best man gets the girl and the swindler loses out in the end.

Cinéma de Paris

The Cinema de Paris showed good judgment in bringing back to Montreal the light opera "Le Prince Charmant," which played at the Imperial a few weeks ago. Kate de Nagy, who plays the female lead, will bear watching. She has it, which begins with a capital and includes looks, voice, figure, and it.

The story is good opera stuff with uniforms, choruses and snappy lyrics. The principalities of Persia makes a good background for the story of love and intrigue which forms the plot.

The scenery is especially well done, and the dancers have chic and are well-coached.

The whole forms a delightful satire on current politics and is good eye and ear entertainment. A new reel and comedy round out a prime program for theatregoers who like to hear well-spoken French.

Between you and me, however, the lighting could be a little better and the action might be speeded up a little in the feature, but it is good fare.

R. H.

Cinéma Imperial

The double bill at the Imperial this week is both entertaining and funny. The first feature portrays the amorous adventures of a young hair-dresser in Paris.

The second picture is a musical comedy, the story of the downfall of a gallant in his attempt to gain the hand of an heiress. The scenes take place in France during the seventeenth century so the customs and dress are very interesting.

College Comment

Although the tendency of students to attempt to absorb a large amount of material in a short time when examinations approach has long been condemned by instructors, this method of study apparently has its advantages.

In an article, "Why Not Cramp?" in a recent issue of Education, Clay A. Duggett of Wisconsin State Teachers College points out that cramming is concentration of the highest order. In spite of the fact that teachers have always contended that what is learned by cramming goes in one eye and out the other, modern psychologists believe that one who learns more rapidly will retain more. According to the new theory, concentration cannot possibly last longer than half an hour at a time as brain stimuli becomes less receptive after that time. In other words, a student studying overtime is not accomplishing any more than one who studies intensely for a short time.

The Wisconsin instructor deplors the fact that in education, as in other fields, instruction methods have come into use by custom rather than by investigation of the most efficient systems. In suggesting cramming as an efficient study method, he feels that one of the outworn scholastic traditions should be done away with.

While Mr. Duggett's recommendation is a definite departure from present teaching methods, it must be understood that he does not condone a week's steady cramming before final examinations to make up for a whole semester of neglect. Under his system a certain amount of cramming would be done regularly.

Although the suggestion that certain types of cramming are often advantageous may prove helpful to some students, more undergraduates already have their own systems of study. And certainly if Mr. Duggett looks with disfavor upon attempting to do a semester's work in a week there are a lot of college men and women who will say that he does not know the real definition of "cramming."—California Daily Begun.

in the chromosomes. Whatever their behaviour then, orderly or disorderly, the chromosomes must follow suit and the distribution of hereditary traits among the offspring, which will result, can be reckoned from the basis of the laws governing this behaviour.

Evolution of Sex
In answer to the second problem, the speaker expressed the opinion that a solution would be obtained if genes and formation of visible characters could be connected together by general processes permitting the drawing of an outlined picture of the whole process.

Turning his attention next to sex, Dr. Goldschmidt explained the effect genes have in this connection. There are male and female genes; and ordinarily the female has a stronger

Thousands brave the inclement weather to listen to Rt. Hon. Max Ford launch a vigorous attack on the present administration. "What we need in this country is a liberal donation to charities, a liberal education and a liberal supply of hot air. I shall endeavour to supply you with all three."

(Flash)

Conservative headquarters today launched a political bombshell by announcing the appointment of Miss "Mary" Gowans to the post of Minister of National Defence. She will be seen in action at the session tomorrow night. Simultaneous with this announcement came the news that Miss "Babe" Goulding will be with the Opposition forces when Rt. Hon. Max Ford introduces his vote of non-confidence.

(Lake St. John, Que., Dec. 12th)
The Hon. Telesphore Lande addressed a huge gathering here last night where he has raised friends among the lumbermen. "There has been too much log-rolling in the Government," he stated. Amid tumultuous cheers and jeers he was presented with a 20-foot log from which to obtain the planks for his platform.

Government Forces

The Government forces headed by the Rt. Hon. Beckett will be supported by his ministry composed of the Hon. T. Blatter, A. Zaitlin, D. Barlow and Marjory Gowans. The Opposition, led by Rt. Hon. Max Ford will be assisted by the Hon. H. Lande, A. Walsh, H. Schaffhausen and Babe Goulding.

The session is thrown open to the general public and any one may take part in the discussion following.

REDMEN TAKE GOAL LEAD OVER TORONTO

Win Opening Match Of McGill Basketeers Defeat Old Rivals At Burlington Intercollegiate Series, 3-2

Freeman And Stein Star For Victors — Entire Team Plays Inspired Polo — Second Game Scheduled For Queen City Next Saturday — Total Goals In Both Games To Decide Winner — McGill Favorites To Regain Title From Blueboys.

IN a smashing surprise victory which kept a large crowd of rooters on their feet constantly during the game, the McGill intercollegiate water polo entry defeated a strong Toronto team Saturday night at the Columbus tank. A terrific pace was maintained throughout the contest, and the winner was not decided until the final whistle. The finish found the Redmen victors by the score of 3-2, and they will thus carry a one goal advantage into the second, and final, game of the series in Toronto next Saturday night. Condition, and the will to win, were the features of the McGill attack against the Blueboys. Led by the flashy playmaking of their speedy centre Stein, spearhead of the Red offensive, McGill fought every inch of the way to record their first victory of the season. Bob Freeman, playing his initial game, provided the scoring punch for the winners, netting the sphere twice for the tying and winning fallies. Mark Stein scored the opening point of the tilt. For Varsity, Davey and Ross were outstanding.

Great Credit Due Team

Great credit is due every man on the Red team for his perseverance, and plugging qualities. Defeated in each of their city league starts, they continued to play to the best of their ability, and they finally clicked in the initial match with the Blueboys. Coach George Vickerson is to be congratulated on his fine showing.

In the first quarter, McGill defended the shallow end. The play commenced at a lively clip, and several scoring threats were diverted by both goalers. The lack of any score in this stanza was a direct result of sterling work on the part of the two netminders, Wayland for McGill, and McLeod for Toronto. Quarter-time score, McGill 0, Toronto 0. Penalties: Bancroft, MacLean.

Close Play Throughout

After 1:55 in the second quarter, Stein scored the first goal, whizzing the ball into a corner of the Blue net. Play was very fast at this point, substitutions being frequent. A clever Varsity play resulted in the score being tied, at 3:30 in the period, Davey being on the business end of the attack. There was no further scoring in this session. Half-time score, McGill 1, Toronto 1. Penalties: None.

The third session produced the best polo of the night. Close calls for both teams, barely-missed, deflect shots, and rugged checking were features of the play. Varsity took the lead on a pretty shot by Ross, which just barely eluded Chuck Wayland. Spurred to renewed activity by the urgent appeals of the gallery, McGill again tied up the game. Bob Freeman scoring the equalizer at 3:30. The period ended with the score tied. Three-quarter time score, McGill 2, Toronto 2. Penalties: None.

Freeman Breaks Deadlock

In the final stanza, both teams played cautiously, unwilling to take unnecessary risks. As the minutes ticked away, however, play loosened up considerably, and many scoring chances were thrown away by over-anxiousness. Freeman broke the deadlock at 3:33 on a beautiful, close-in shot which tricked McLeod. This proved the final goal of the match. Final score, McGill 3, Toronto 2. Penalties: Davey.

The boys go to the Queen City next week, where they hope to repeat their victory of Saturday night. If they are successful the title will return to Montreal with them.

Tonight, McGill will face M.A.A.A. in their final city league encounter of the season. The Red Juniors will also play, meeting M.A.A.A. in the second game of the doubleheader. This match should prove a good conditioner for the seniors, in preparation for the intercollegiate game next Saturday.

The teams follow:

McGill	Toronto
Wayland..... Goal	McLeod
Shaw..... Defence	Smith
Davis..... Defence	Secomb
French..... Half	Learie
Stein..... Centre	Davey
Freeman..... Forward	Ross
MacLean..... Forward	McCarty
Shapiro..... Alternate	Bancroft
Cross.....	Swallow

action than the male. Then providing the ratio in which the genes are in a cell is favorable to the female, the sex developed will be female. But if on the other hand the ratio is favorable to the male genes, a male is developed.

Intersexuality

Touching on the phenomenon of intersexuality, the speaker explained how an individual can begin its development with one sex, continue with it up to a certain point, known as the turning point, and then finish its development within the other sex. The final development of such an individual depends upon the amount of time spent within the respective sexes; that is upon the turning point.

Red Boxers Fight More Exhibitions

Excellent Program At Field House Tonight — Navy League Bouts

PREPARATIONS have been completed for the program of exhibition bouts to be run off at the Field House tonight at 8 o'clock. These weekly features are proving very popular and a large crowd is expected to be on hand for tonight's series. Eleven bouts in all have been arranged and will bring together some of the best Red millmen. Besides McGill men, fighters from University Settlement, Central "Y" and Westmount High will be seen in action.

Last Friday night, five Red boxers displayed their wares at the Navy League Tourney. A fair house turned out to witness the fights and the McGill men were presented with souvenirs of the occasion. All the bouts put on by the collegians were no-decision exhibitions. A feature of the show was the relay bout put on by Corbett, Johnson and MacGregor.

MacGregor To Fight

Tonight's feature will likely be the battle between Hugh MacGregor, 135-lb. intercollegiate champ and Rutter, clever Central "Y" lightweight scrapper. Both these boys have lots of experience and should put on a battle well worth watching. Bercovitz, Red 112-lb. intercollegiate representative, makes his first appearance of the season against Yancy, who has been showing up well in practice. Last year was Bercovitz's first year in the game, but he showed considerable promise and he will be out to keep his place on the team. Yancy won a decision over Southwood two weeks ago and he will be anxious to keep the title clean.

The following is the complete line-up of bouts:

- 115 lbs. Southwood vs A. Nother.
- 115 lbs. Yancy vs Bercovitz.
- 125 lbs. H. Black vs Tannebaum.
- 125 lbs. Fysha vs A. N. Other.
- 135 lbs. Shearer "Y" vs Nobbs.
- 135 lbs. MacGregor vs Rutter "Y."
- 145 lbs. Swift vs Morgan.
- 155 lbs. Hand "W.H.S." vs Archibald.
- 155 lbs. Corbett vs Johnson.
- 165 lbs. MacLennan vs Osborne "Univ. Settlement."
- 165 lbs. Murphy "Y" vs Brenhouse.

Judges: Dr. W. T. Hand, "Bud" Porteous, Gordon Gilbert.
Timekeeper: Howard Dolg.
Referee: Bert Light.

Differentiation takes place at this point so that either intersexual males or females are developed according as the turning point turns the balance in favor of the one or the other. If a greater period of time is spent in male development, before or after turning point, a male intersexual will be developed.

Then again if a male gene, which under ordinary circumstances would be overcome by a female, comes from a particularly strong type and proves too strong for the latter, a female intersexual is developed. This is also true when a female gene similarly proves too strong for two male genes, and a male intersexual is produced.

SOCCERITES HELD ANNUAL ELECTIONS FOR COMING YEAR

George Owen Elected Captain — John Nolan New Playing-Manager

THE Soccer Club held its annual election of officers Saturday at a business meeting held in Hay Finlay's office in the Physical Education Building. George Owen, centre-half of the intercollegiate team for the past four years, was elected captain for the season 1933-34. John Nolan, regular inside right for the past three seasons, was appointed playing manager.

A committee of three, composed of Hay Finlay, George Owen, and John Nolan, was next appointed to arrange a tentative schedule for a projected trip to the States in 1934. Army, Navy and Penn State were the colleges mooted as possible opponents for the Red soccerites on the planned invasion.

To Appoint Assistant
The committee plans to unearth the best possibilities, arrange a favorable campaign and out expenses to a minimum. Regarding the assistant-managerial post, it was left to the discretion of the incoming manager to appoint his assistant. This assistant would in turn be raised to the position of manager the following year.

Prospects for the coming season were next discussed and only two men are on the uncertain list as to returning to college. They are Captain Ken Ross, and Manager Ernie Carter. The former has been a standout in the McGill nets during his three years of service. Carter has been holding down the outside-left berth since 1931. Both men may return for the graduate work next year and if this is the case, the present squad will be intact to resume hostilities with Varsity in an attempt to regain the intercollegiate title last won in 1930.

Cagers Win Fast Game At Vermont

Redmen Succeeded At Last In Winning Game on Vermont Floor

BURLINGTON, VT., Dec. 10.—(Special to McGill Daily)—McGill basketballers brought home the bacon on Saturday night, when they scored a Red team has ever gained on the Vermont cagers in the first win that a Red team has ever gained on the Vermonters' floor. The score was 33-24 and was fairly indicative of the play throughout the game.

This represents the second victory against Vermont in three years, the Redmen having defeated them at McGill two years ago. Coach Van Wagner is well pleased with the performance of his charges, and is optimistic of the Redmen's chances in the approaching intercollegiate campaign.

Vermont's Criss-Cross

The Vermonters started off with a bewildering criss-cross play that had the Redmen guessing for several seconds. The ball changed hands four or five times with bullet-like rapidity. Vermont obviously attempting to draw one of the McGill men out of position and thus start a combination. They actually succeeded in sinking two quick baskets to open the scoring, but McGill soon found their stride and took the lead at 6-4, after which they were never headed.

The game proved to be a clean, fast affair with only a few rough spots. These, in the main, came towards the end of the game, and resulted in Calhoun, Pires and Small going off with four personals. This appeared to encourage the Vermonters, for they succeeded in encroaching upon McGill's lead to an alarming extent, the score within five minutes from time being 25-23.

Lewin Outstanding

Lewin turned in one of his best performances, playing at centre for the first time this year. Faulkner, Small, and Rice were others who participated to any extent in the scoring, though all members of squad turned in faultless exhibition. Lewin was the highest scorer of the evening with 40 points, Rice coming next with eight. For the Vermonters, Captain Pires played most effectively, garnering nine points for his team.

The teams follow:
Vermont—Grant (1), Pires (8), Morgan (2), Beckley (4), Past (1), Palmer (4), Raymond, Green (3), Sowka, McGill—Faulkner (6), Small (5), Lewin (10), Condit, Rice (8), Calhoun (1), Moore (2), Wilson.

Water Polo

Will the following turn out for the games against M. A. A. A. tonight, at 8:30: Seniors: Wayland, Shaw, Davis, Stein, French, MacLean, Freeman, Cross, Shapiro, Worrall Juniors: Tessier, MacLure, Smythe, Percy, Silverstone, Peacock, Duques, Shragovitch, Savage.

Will be expected to enter two teams in the league.

WINTER OUTING CLUB

The rowing machines will be available to the members on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Turn out and use them, or have a run on the track.

Bill Tait will be in charge of these afternoon workouts.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

The following games have been postponed:
Mon. Dec. 12—Arts 2 vs. Com. 4.
Tues. Dec. 13—Dent. 1 vs. Arts 1.
Tues. Dec. 13—Law 1 vs. Med. 1.

SWIMMING MEET

The following are particularly asked to turn out today in preparation for the meet and game against M. A. A. A. on Wednesday. Sprenger, Bill Wilson, Peacock, Reg Wilson, Stein, MacKenzie, Butterfield, Howard, Shaw, Savage, MacLure, Shragovitch, and all others interested. As each entry can swim in only one event, a large team is needed.

At the conclusion of the dancing, many of the revellers travelled down the street to Child's where the festive atmosphere continued to prevail for another hour.

Conditioning Of Squad Proceeds Favorably At Field House

IT is not true that the McGill Rowing Club are only anxious to interest heavy men in rowing. It has been brought to the attention of the rowing committee, that a rumor has been going around the college to the effect that only men over 160 pounds are welcomed at the Field House where winter training is now going on. J. T. Butler, chairman of the committee, denied this emphatically when interviewed Saturday.

With the club's fine boats, all this number can be taken care of on the water, and it is one of the main lines of policy of the rowing committee this year, that any man, no matter what size, weight or shape, who has done adequate work on the machines during winter training, will have a chance to row in a shell. In fact, every man will have numerous chances to race, both with other McGill crews, and in the friendly regattas which will be arranged with Lacrosse crews of like calibre.

The practice hours are 3.00 to 7.00 p.m. daily, in the Field House, until further notice.

beautiful street lined with stately elms and bordered by some of the finest houses in Montreal but, he continued, this beauty was not appreciated when the snow had to be shovelled all the way to Dorchester Street in order to connect the University with the city.

No trouble was then experienced in crossing Sherbrooke street at that time, as an occasional horse and buggy comprised the traffic. Trouble was experienced by Sir William Dawson, however, as he was forced to carry his own provisions for the butchers and grocers of Notre Dame street found it impossible to deliver goods "in the country."

Present Problems

Following these reminiscences by Dr. Adams, Mr. Murray Brooks, the general secretary of the S. C. M., described conditions at the University today emphasizing the task of a religious movement working among students.

The purpose of such a movement, he said, was to sponsor straight thinking, straight hearing and straight seeing so that those entering our public and industrial lives would be transformers changing discord into harmony. Students, he continued, must be challenged to try to improve the world and wipe out prejudices and distorted judgements.

Mr. Brooks also maintained that the time is ripe for another Student Volunteer Movement for, he said, confusion and bewilderment is at present the state of mind of the student and the day of graduation is looked to with dread.

Lloyd Reynolds president of the S. C. M. moved a vote of thanks to those in attendance pointing out that it was a great help to know that there were so many people in Montreal behind them in their efforts to promote religious life at McGill. The vice-president of the organization seconded the motion.

A letter from Sir Arthur Currie expressing his regret at not being able to address the gathering because of an attack of the flu was read.

visible, that we can't help having depressions.

The great fault which has been characteristic of world, is the failure of people to see the significance of an issue when it arises, and to realize what the results of rash and hasty action will be. After the war the Allies decided that Germany would have to pay the entire costs of the War, settling the cost at the "astronomical figure" of one hundred billion dollars. They didn't realize the impossibility of this. Said Sir Norman, "It took my countrymen 10 years to see it, the French don't see it yet. And the American Congressmen have taken oath before high heaven that they will never see it."

Biased History

He went on to discuss how the ultra-national spirit had caused this retaliatory spirit, and how it caused the collapse of the capitalists. History, as taught from a nationalistic and biased viewpoint has been to a large degree responsible for this.

He urged the need for a spirit of tolerance, to listen to the other man, "not as a right granted to him, but as an obligation to yourself." In his closing words, he said, "Good will alone will not save us. In addition to that we must have intelligence."

velocities in proportion to the quantities in which they are present in a cell. For example, patterns on butterfly wings are produced by the recombination of genes and their rate of differentiation.

In conclusion Dr. Goldschmidt stated that many details must be cleared up before we can have a clear picture of the whole progress of his theory. Prof. Lloyd proposed a vote of thanks to the speaker, which Prof. Huxkins seconded. Dr. A. S. Eve, Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research, presided.

Railways Offer Low Rates

It won't be long now until the Christmas holidays will be at hand, and McGill students who intend to return home for the festive season are reminded of the offer for reduced fares, given by both Canadian railway companies is still in force, and they would do well to take advantage of this fact.

RED AND WHITE REVUE NOTES

18. GENERAL COMMITTEE
There will be a luncheon meeting of the General Committee in the Grill Room of the Union at 1 p.m., Wednesday. This will be the last meeting before the holidays, so everyone should be present. Also be on time, as some people have to leave early for two o'clock lectures.

19. CHORUS
Regular rehearsal in the Union Ballroom at 5:15 p.m., Wednesday. Remember that this means that the rehearsal starts then, not that you arrive then, and don't forget to have your attendance checked off. Girls who miss more than three rehearsals are automatically dropped from the chorus, and two lates count as one absence. Gym tunics and low-heeled shoes.

regard the preparation and cooking of food an ART

Murray Chefs are artists at heart. Long, careful training in the Murray ideals has given them a pride of craft that reflects in the tempting dishes served to Murray patrons. There is individuality and character in Murray cooking, a standard possible only when extreme care in the selection of the finest foods is combined with equal attention to the preparation—that is why "We regard the preparation and cooking of food an art"—and one of the reasons why Murray's is so popular.
